JANUARY 2012 EDITION HAPPY NEW YEAR!

THE YEAR IN REVIEW AND THE YEAR TO COME NEWS!

The first year of my venture into the life of an artist has been very gratifying and rewarding. I have enjoyed finding many new ideas and requests for sculptures. The commissions I have done were fun and challenging.

I have enjoyed all the aspects of creating and watching each project come to life and it certainly has been a great way to distress and rejuvenate! Many wonder how I can do this and keep up with my full time job! Meeting all of the interesting people at the markets and workshops has been so much fun that it really is not work. I somehow end up feeling energized and excited which I hope will continue into the upcoming year!

This January I have embarked on a new adventure to market my sculptures and will be joining 9 other Vendors in a market style gift store. Ellen is a long time crafter who has been attending markets for over 20 years off and on and has decided to open "Ellen's Eclectic Gifts". You will find the store at 7125 Vedder Rd Chilliwack which is on a main road with lots of visibility so there is lots of potential there. I will post pictures on my website of the grand opening!

In March I hope to be attending the Bloom Market again in Fort Langley which I thoroughly enjoyed in the summer.

In May I will be off to visit my daughter in Ireland but you never know Paverpol may be in the picture as I hope to meet some Irish Paverpol artists I have met on line and facebook!

June 1-3rd 2012. I'm really excited to be attending Creative Chaos which is billed as the largest craft sale in Western Canada located in Vernon BC, in the sunny Okanagan. The Creative Chaos Craft Show has over 200 artisans and crafters in 3 buildings, a food faire with performing arts and creative activities!
